This is a great time to touch base about any questions after the automated WebDCU emails, or any questions in general related to data entry. These questions can also relate to the ancillaries for [PRECICECAP & BioHOBIT].

Please reach out to Peyton Kline [peyton@musc.edu] with any questions or concerns.

REMINDER OF HOBIT RESOURCES

Below, you will find a selection of highlighted resources available on the HOBITTRIAL.org website. Please explore these valuable resources and share with your study team as well as clinical team members.

Clinical Team Training PowerPoint

The Clinical Team Training PowerPoint is highly recommended as an excellent resource for both retraining existing HOBIT team members and providing guidance to new team members.

Informed Consent Process Overview Video

In the Informed Consent Process Overview Video, study teams will learn effective techniques to present the HOBIT study to a patient's family member who may have limited medical knowledge, as well as experience stress and grief due to the patient's condition.

Educational Video for Clinical and Study Teams

With new residents on-boarding at your sites soon, we thought it was time to recirculate the educational video. Please share with new clinical staff!

This video is available for the purpose of education, training and inspiring all research and clinical team members participating in HOBIT. The HOBIT Leadership Team's request is that you use this video as an opportunity to re-energize and inspire your intensivists, neurosurgeons, critical care staff, respiratory therapists, HBO technicians and all who have worked so hard on the HOBIT Trial.

Please note! These videos should be used for educating/training clinical staff and study team members about the study. They should NOT be used as participant recruitment materials.

Scientific Rationale for the Potential Efficacy of HBO2 in Severe TBI

One of the surmountable barriers to enrolling patients in this trial is the refusal of informed consent by LARs. We believe that in some cases informed consent may be obtainable if the consenting clinician/coordinator is armed with the right information regarding the scientific rationale for the study and the strength of the prior work supporting this study. As a result, we have drafted a one page summary of the scientific rational and evidence supporting this study. Please share this broadly with anyone involved in the consenting process.

This document is available here and in the hobittrial.org Toolbox.
