We wanted to take just a moment to say thank you to each and every person who has contributed to our network since we started this journey back in 2017. The journey has been unexpected, full of challenges no one expected or could ever have anticipated, and yet, we have all persevered – because each of you has stepped up, continued to believe in our mission, our team and the science! We are all responsible for creating one of the strongest networks in SIREN, having grown something truly exceptional despite all that has been thrown our way. From the bottom of our hearts Thank you for all your hard work and a very happy holiday season to all!

NETWORK NEWS & UPDATES

It is official; our Hub has been renewed by the NIH for another funding cycle and we are excited to continue working with all of you moving forward. We are working on application details for our new training program, and hope to share those in the coming weeks. We will also plan to have a virtual kick-off meeting for our network in early 2023. Watch your inbox for more details in the coming weeks.

We did lose Duke from our team but are delighted to note that they were selected to be their own Hub in SIREN.

A message from Alexander Limkakeng, MD at Duke:

On behalf of the Duke University investigators and clinical research coordinators involved in SIREN studies, I'd like to thank the Oregon Hub leadership and constituent site investigators and CRCs for your support over the last 5 years.

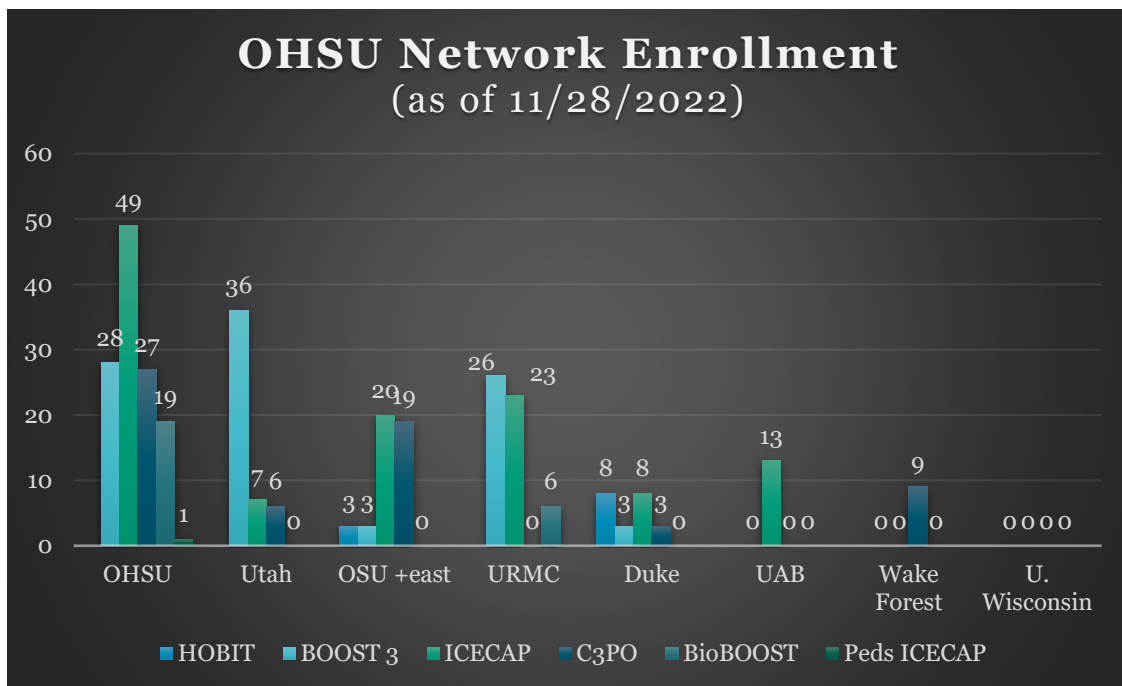

Thanks in no doubt in part to our participation in this Hub, we have been selected to lead our own Hub in the upcoming funding cycle of SIREN. We have learned a great deal from all of you, through the regular calls and in person meetings. We look forward to continuing to cooperate together to conduct high quality studies in emergency care.

To all our sites (current and departing): Bory (Co-PI) and I really appreciate your collective efforts in the first funding cycle, which helped us be the number 1 enrolling Hub in the trial. There are several new proposals on the horizon, and we look forward to working with you on these as they are funded.

With much appreciation and gratitude, Mo Daya MD OHSU Hub PI

We are looking for additional sites that could join our network. If you know a colleague at an unaffiliated site who may be interested in joining us, please let us know!
